NEW RAILROAD

Detroit & Lima Northern May Come to Benton Harbor.

Report That This Company Has
Bought the M., B. H. & C.

And Secured an Option on the South
Haven & Eastern.

Will Make This a Big Transfer Point for Milwaukee.

Officials of the M., B. H. & C. Laugh at the Report.

Special to THE EVENING NEWS

HOLLAND, Oct. 25.—Grand Haven, Holland and Muskegon are disappointed and Benton Harbor will get the terminal of the Detroit, Lima & Northern railroad, where a transfer point will be made to Milwaukee.

This statement is made on the best of authority and even Railroad Commissioner Wessellius cannot deny it.

The Detroit & Lima Northern people have purchased the Milwaukee, Benton Harbor, formerly the St. Joe Valley, and also have an option on the South Haven & Eastern narrow gauge line.

The fact that the officials of the Detroit & Lima Northern officials visited Holland Saturday looking over the harbor and terminal facilities afforded here, is considered merely a bluff to make Benton Harbor people believe that they intended to make this their transfer point.

The Detroit & Lima Northern is a new road and is suspected to be in the end a part of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, or Brice system. The road will be a powerful system when completed and it is not surprising that it should seek a terminal at the best natural harbor on the east shore of lake Michigan. Such a connection would give Benton Harbor a through line to Toledo and the east, a road that this city has desired for years.

A reporter for THE EVENING NEWS called at the office of the M., B. H. & C. this afternoon to verify the report. Neither of the Pattersons were in. Those of the officials who were present laughed at the report, their manner indicating that they regarded it as a fake.

Even if the report were true the officials of the Benton Harbor road are too clever railroad men not to deny it at this time.

CERCUIT COURT.

WILLIAM BURNS IS ON TRIAL FOR ATTEMPTED MURDER.

Eight-year Old Son of Mrs. Susan De Mar the Victim of Burn's Alleged Brutality.

The circuit court convened this morning and took up the hearing of William Burns, accused of attempting to murder little Allen Wilson, the eight-year old son of Mrs. Susan DeMar, of St. Joseph.

The alleged crime occurred last summer. Mrs. DeMar lives at 28 Court street. She sent Allen down town on an errand and while on his mission he was intercepted by Burns and carried and dragged to a point in some bushes a short distance south of the power house where the assailant declared he intended to kill the boy upon the request he said of the boy's father who had separated from his wife, the custody of the child being given to the wife who has since married again.

Burns was discovered while in the act of choking the boy. The rescuer took charge of the little fellow and returned him to his mother and Burns was later arrested in this city and has since been in the county jail. He is being defended by Lawyer H. W. Davis and the prosecution is represented by Prosecutor Valentine. The following jury was impanelled: P. O. Howe, Fred Kerwein, Nathan Williams, U. S. Moore, Robert Bretschneider, J. M. Ross, John W. Wilson, Harry Vincent, Henry Bowman, Joseph Richards, David L. Zaring, Charles Washburn.

Allen and his mother testified this morning. The boy related the story as told above and his mother corroborated the same.

Lawyer James O'Hara moved that security for the costs be ordered in the case of Herman Longere against Edmund A. Graham. The motion was taken under advisement.

In the case of Weist against Murdoch 15 days additional time were granted within which to file a bill of exceptions.

The cases of John O'Brien, charged with assault and battery, and Amos Day, carnal knowledge of a female under the age of 16 years, were nolle prossed.

James J. Atkinson, of Grand Rapids, is acting as court stenographer in the absence of E. L. Knapp, who is otherwise occupied.

Judge Coolidge decreed this morning that the case of Thomas A. Walker against W. E. Symes and George B. Dudley, be dismissed with costs to be taxed against the defendants.

ON THE LAKE.

CHICAGO SCHOONER GIFFORD
GOES TO THE BOTTOM.

The Tuscarora Struck Bottom Ran Hard
Aground in Thunder Bay Sunday Morning.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Laden with a cargo of iron ore and laboring in a heavy sea, the Chicago schooner, the F. W. Gifford, sprung a leak on Lake Michigan Thursday night and went to the bottom within three hours. The crew of eight men were driven to take refuge in the little yawl boat, and, in a night so black that men sitting side by side could not see each other's faces, with squalls constantly breaking from the northward, they were left to drift about until they were picked up by the schooner City of Sheboygan, bound for Chicago, and were brought into port last evening.

ALPENA, Oct. 25.—In a dense fog, which shut out lights and landscapes, the steamer Tuscarora of the Lehigh Valley line, ran hard aground on Thunder Bay island Sunday morning. Her signals of distress at once brought the Thunder Bay life-savers, commanded by Capt. Parsons, to her rescue, and by dint of hard work the steamer was finally released last evening.

The Tuscarora was on her regular run from Buffalo to Chicago, and as near as can be ascertained her cargo consisted of about 2,500 tons of general merchandise, much of it being cement and sugar.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The steam barge S. S. Curry partly wrecked the Lake street bridge yesterday afternoon. The boat was outward bound loaded with grain from the south branch elevators, and was towed by two tugs. It had passed nearly through the draw when it became fast on the bottom of the river. The tugs jerked and pulled until the boat was clear, and as it swung into a deeper channel the stern crashed into the bridge. When the bridge closed it was necessary for carpenters to repair it.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEAD.

Terrible Wreck Sunday Morning on the New York Central Railroad.

TRAIN JUMPS INTO RIVER.

Was Making Up Lost Time When the Train Jumped the Track.

GARRISON, N. Y., Oct. 25.—A disastrous railroad accident occurred on the New York Central & Hudson River railroad, a short distance below Garrison's station, early Sunday morning. The train was the State express, due in New York at 7:30 o'clock, and was made up of engine No. 872, a combination baggage and express car, a smoker, two ordinary passenger coaches and four sleepers, in charge of Conductor Parish.

The train left Albany at 3:15 o'clock, on time, and was going at a good rate of speed when it passed Garrison's. It was a mile and a half below here when the accident occurred. Conductor Parish says the track seemed to fall out from under the train, the train seemed to shoot into the air, and the next minute it appeared to fall into the river. Into the slimy waters of the Hudson the cars plunged, dragging through the waters the helpless passengers. There was nothing to presage the terrible accident which so suddenly deprived so many human beings of life.

Two cars only were left on the track. The engine did not stop until it lay submerged fifty feet below the surface. The two forward cars followed and were piled upon the engine. The smoker and two following ordinary cars broke from the train and ran some distance along the bank and then into the water. Two of the sleeping cars ran into the river, but fortunately were left only partly under water, the windows toward the shore being left above the surface.

Neither engineer nor fireman will ever tell the story of that terrible moment for, with his hand upon the throttle, the engineer plunged with his engine to the river bottom, and the fireman, too, was at his post. Behind came the express car, the combination car and the sleepers, and these piled on top of the engine.

It is known that it was a trifle foggy and that the track was not visible, but if there was any break in the lines of steel it must have been of very recent happening, for only an hour before there had passed over it a heavy passenger train laden with human freight.

The section of road was supposed to be the very best on the entire division. There was a great heavy retaining wall all along the bank, and, while the tide was high yesterday, it was not unprecedented. What seems to have happened was that underneath the tracks and ties the heavy wall had given way and when the great weight of the engine struck the unsupported tracks it went crashing through the rest of the wall and toppled over into the river.

As the train plunged over the embankment the coupling that held the last two of the six sleepers broke and they miraculously remained on the broken track. In this way some sixty lives were saved.

Of the eye witnesses there were none except the crew of a tugboat passing with a tow. They saw the train with its light as it came flashing about the curves, and then saw the greater part of it go into the river. Some of the cars with closed windows floated and the tug, whistling for help, cast off its hawser and started to the rescue.

It was 3:15 in the morning when train No. 46, which now lies in ruins at the bottom of the Hudson, pulled out of Albany and rumbled across the bridge on its fatal journey south. All the way from Buffalo and even further west its doom had been making. Little delays, things that are ordinarily of no moment, had worked together to hold back the train which should have led the way for this one. The Big Four connection was late from Cleveland into Buffalo, and 46 started away from the lake city on the time of the train that should have preceded it by half an hour. Again, the Montreal express was delayed in Troy to take on the scenery and baggage of James J. Corbett's show, and again ill-fated 46 took the right of way and started on with its burden of sleeping souls. Twenty-eight are known to be dead.

I had a chance to see the book before it was "obsessed" in the public schools and could write by passing a copy book before her and picking out letter by letter those she wanted to use. This took a good deal of time, but she was sensible enough to choose her times so the practice was not as objectionable as with most of them, whose passion for letter writing is so great that it is indulged in at all times regardless of duty. One evening every one had gone out and Letty was left to lock the house and go home. I came home first and found on the sideboard an immense paper bag. I knew at once it must have been forgotten by Letty, who lived at a distance, and so thrust my hand in to see if there was anything in it to spoil. Fruit and cakes were in it, but my hand encountered a box such as jewelers sell fine rings in. I opened it, of course, to know if it contained any valuables. A portion of her hair had been soaked in perfumed grease and braided fine and tight to the length it could be stretched, tied with blue ribbon and coiled ring shape. It rested on a piece of paper, on which was written, "My dearest, I send you a lark of my heart and let not any one else lay the weight of their finger upon it." I read no further in the love note, shut and put back the box, but that "lark of heart" was an interesting proof how much alike human nature is in "all sorts and conditions of men," and women too.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Patent Cow For Hunters.

A Nebraska man has invented a patent cow for hunters. The invention presents the perfect outward semblance of a most peaceable and amiable cow, but the fore legs and hind legs are in fact the two pairs of legs of two men. They are armed with guns and have a plentiful supply of ammunition. The patent cow moves along like an ordinary harmless animal until it is in the midst of a lot of birds, when it comes open and the two men inside blaze away. Formed in the sides of the frame, at suitable points, are windows or openings protected by outward swinging flap blinds, and through these windows the sportsman in the rear may discharge his fowling piece when the game has been successfully stalked. For the firing of the hunter in the front of the decoy there is provided a downward swinging portion, which includes the head and neck of the animal, so that by simply releasing a small catch from the inside of the framework this releases the swinging front portion, which immediately drops by gravity and thus leaves the sportsman free.—Boston Transcript.

At Sea In a Coffin.

It was the French assassin Lupi who escaped to sea from Cayenne in a coffin. He managed to get some nails, tar and cotton, and one dark night he got into the coffin shed. He selected a fine, stanch and seaworthy coffin, fastened the lid in order to turn it into a deck, leaving a cockpit sufficient to enable him to crawl in. He calked all the joints as well as he could, and when this work was finished he made a pair of paddles out of two planks. Then he brought out his craft with great precaution. Without much difficulty he reached the water's edge. Silently and slowly he proceeded in the hope of reaching either Venezuela or British Guiana, 150 nautical miles distant. Fortunately or unfortunately for Lupi the steamer Abeille, returning from the Antilles, off Paramaribo, picked him up, half drowned and almost in a fainting condition, and a few hours later he was in irons in his cell.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Poker In the Postoffice.

"Give me three aces," said a sporting man at the stamp window of the postoffice, just before noon, a couple of days ago.

The stamp clerk passed out three 1 cent stamps.

"Now deal me a pair of deuces," The clerk passed out the 2 cent stamps.

"I see you understand the game," said the man.

"Yep," said the clerk. "Ante up." The man placed 7 cents on the shelf.

"My pot," said the clerk as he scooped it in.

The men smiled as they parted.—New York Commercial.

Nutrition For Consumptives.

The following is recommended as food that would be nutritious for one suffering from chronic consumption, since ordinary foods had become repugnant: One hard boiled egg, which when perfectly cold is pressed through a sieve so that the albumen and hard yolk may be thoroughly triturated; then add to this by thorough stirring two heaping tablespoonsful of perfectly roasted peanuts which have been ground or chopped very fine. This will make two intermediate meals, say one at 11 a. m. and one at 4 p. m. A cracker or glass of hot milk will help the ingestion and secure perfect nutrition.—Hygienic Gazette.

His Own Master.

"We have come," said the chairman of the committee, "to ask you to take this nomination. The city needs a man like you—strong, brave, self made, self reliant, owning no master, fearing no man."

The great man was visibly touched. "I'll not deny," said he, "that your kind words have shaken my resolution. I trust that if elected I may justify your confidence and prove that I am indeed strong, brave, self reliant; that I own no master and fear no man. Suppose you wait a minute till I see if my wife will let me accept?"—Strand Magazine.

DO NOT GO WEST.

Frank Guibert Tells a Discouraging Story of Western Hardships.

ADVISES AGAINST GOING THERE

Says There Are 100 Men to Every Job and the Cheap Land is Dear at Any Price.

Frank Guibert, living at 132 Ross street, returned yesterday morning from a two weeks' journey through the west. Mr. Guibert is a machinist and engineer and was induced to look through the west by the gaudy representations of the railroads that the west was the mecca for the laboring man, for the farmer and for men of all vocations.

Mr. Guibert has traveled through Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Idaho, Oregon, the Dakotas and Iowa, and he declares that in none of these states did he find a place where the laboring man or the farmer has better opportunities than are offered in Michigan. He saw the cheap farms advertised so glowingly by the western railway companies and found them to be pine and swamplands, fallow and unproductive. He visited Butte, Portland and Denver where jobs for the asking were advertised, and found from 50 to 100 men for every position.

At Butte there is lots of business, but there are hundreds of idle men, men who like Mr. Guibert had been induced by the guiled promises of the transportation companies to seek the false mecca. Mr. Butte applied for a position in a Butte machine shop. The manager took him into the shop and there pointed out numerous idle machines, the operators of which had been discharged because of no work, and were waiting for the shops to resume operations. This same condition was conspicuous everywhere. Common laborers at Butte received $4 to $4.50 per day, but they paid from $15 to $20 per month for house rent. "A man working in Benton Harbor at $9 per week will save more money and live better than a man receiving $10 in Butte," said Mr. Guibert.

The cheap land, represented for sale at $2.50 per acre, is valueless for farms. It lies in benighted regions where school advantages cannot be had, and except for grazing is of no value. Denver, Mr. Guibert says, is a busy place, but like all the other western cities so extensively boomed by the railroads, is full of idle men. At Helena, Montana, half of the dwelling houses are empty and business is paralyzed. Land that is at all available costs from $50 to $100 per acre.

The silver mines are mostly shut down, which westerners explain, is the result of the defeat of free silver, and hundreds of idle miners through the cities, making life intolerable for respectable people. The fact that Butte is a healthy place is denied by Guibert. He says the smoke from the smelters settle over the city in an impenetrable cloud and everybody is coughing continually.

The farm residences are merely huts, there are no schools in many sections, and the general condition of the country is discouraging to a person who has enjoyed the advantages of Michigan.

Persons contemplating moving west will do a wise thing to see Mr. Guibert before arriving at a decision.

BOLD HIGHWAYMEN.

They Rob Their Victim on the Public Street.

Saturday night about 11 o'clock Clarence Huddleston, employed in Hone Bros' hardware store in St. Joseph, was held up and robbed of $2, all the money in his possession. He was crossing State street at Walker & Schneider's blacksmith shop when three men approached him, one of them grabbing him by the throat while the others went through his pockets. Five minutes later David Keeley was arrested on suspicion of being connected with the holdup. Huddleston had no opportunity to see the robbers until they had finished their work and were running away. It, therefore, will be difficult for him to identify any of the men.

OUT HIS CLASS.

C. C. SWEET MADE THE MISTAKE OF RACING OUT OF CLASS.

Former Alderman Merrill and G. W. Fox Rode in the Dust of the Retired Merchant.

Had C. C. Sweet stuck to his original challenge and only rode against men of over 50 years like Old Abe, the war eagle, we would never have lost a battle. A week ago Saturday Mr. Sweet tried to get up a race over the seven mile course with men of his own age. The Orin company encouraged the race by offering a wheel lantern as a prize to the winner. There was no one to contest for the prize with Mr. Sweet and he leisurely rode over the course and won the lantern.

Last Saturday the Orin company offered a Messenger saddle to the winner of a similar race and by request of Mr. Sweet the age limit was dropped to 45. There were four entries: Mr. Sweet, L. L. Merrill, G. W. Fox, and J. A. Weeks, who scarce looks 40. The latter beat Mr. Sweet three minutes and won the saddle.

The race between Mr. Sweet and Mr. Merrill was nip and tuck, the former making the seven miles in 31½ minutes, against Mr. Merrill's 32 minutes. Of the two Mr. Sweet is the more daring rider. He made the best time going down hill while Mr. Merrill gained on his opponent on the heavy up grades. Mr. Fox was not in it all. He made the mistake of borrowing a wheel he was not accustomed to, had a collision on Niles avenue and walked home.

Mr. Sweet takes his defeat philosophically. When asked about it this morning he said: "I merely got out of my class."

the Bangor team being composed of 11 stalwart men to whom defeat is quite a stranger.

The Twin Cities, however, showed better training and greater skill, and to these conditions, perhaps, more than to any other may the fact of their victory be attributed.

JAKE THE STAR.

"A NIGHT OFF" WORTHY OF LARGE PATRONAGE.

Manager Simon Has a Strong Support in a Strong and Pleasing New Attraction.

The bill for Tuesday evening will be the celebrated three-act farce-comedy entitled, "An Off Night." This comedy has run for months in the eastern cities and is pronounced by critics throughout the country to be one of the most uproariously funny comedies of the present day. Interspersed with the evening's entertainment will be specialties by the O'Malley sisters, who appear in duets and solos. These ladies possess fine soprano and contralto voices, and are well known favorites from the vaudeville stage.

Billy Devere and wife appear in their well known negro sketches for which they are justly noted; also F. E. Thompson and E. V. Mershom will appear in character songs and ballads.

The event of the coming dramatic season in this city will be the appearance of the Simon Comedy company, headed by the well known Benton Harbor favorite, J. A. Simon, which opens here Tuesday evening with one of the strongest and most competent comedy companies on the road at the present time. The following strong company has been engaged to support "Our Jake":

Miss Anna O'Malley, Miss Belle O'Malley, Mrs. Jennette Mershom, Mrs. Lillian Allen-Dever, Miss Mamie Simon, A. R. Ethier, Cal Williams, F. V. Mershom, H. J. Bernard, Billie Devere, Lew Jordan, F. E. Thompson.

The company comes for a season of from three to five nights and a Saturday matinee, and will produce the latest comedies fresh from the pen of up-to-date and able writers.

Mr. Simon assures his many friends of the Twin Cities that the present company he has gathered around him is by far the strongest he has ever had supporting him on the road, as each member is an artist of ability and reputation. Popular prices of 15, 25 and 35 will prevail and a good house is assured.

THE NEW APHRODITE.

Out of the deep sea stream,
Into the light and the air,
Rose like a gracious dream
Venus, the fair

How much of sorrow and rue,
How much of joy and peace,
Sprang that day from the blue
Waters of Greece!

Oh, from a Cyclops' verge
Or swift galleys' prow to have seen
Her, the world's wonder, emerge,
Veiled in the sheen

Or her glorious sea-dripping locks,
Buoyant of limb and as bright
As the sole star that leads out the flocks
Of the shepherdess Night!

But what avails it to sigh
For a glimpse of that day withdrawn:
Not for long in the sky
Stays the fair dawn.

Ours the nobler lot
Under the broad noontide,
Gazing, to falter not,
Till from the wide

Ocean of life we behold,
Rising in splendor and might,
Fairer than Venus of old,
Calmer than Night,

Purer than Dawn or the blue
Depths of ether untrod,
Nature, the only, the true
Daughter of God.

(— W. P. Trent in Dial.

The trial of Constable Sinsabaugh for doing his duty has been postponed until December 11. From that date it will probably be adjourned over to the second century of the millennium.

There is none to gainsay the proud position of the Michigan University as an educational institution. It was easy for Ann Arbor to defeat Oberlin in the great football game on Saturday.

The grave of the late George M. Pullman has been made so secure that only by the use of tons of dynamite can ghoul steal the body. Many feet below the surface of the earth was laid a concrete bottom two feet thick and on this was placed the coffin. Above the coffin was a layer of railroad rails bolted firmly together and above this the grave was filled with concrete to within a short space of the top, leaving room for earth to grow grass and flowers and make the outer appearance of the sepulchre similar to that of others. This precaution was taken so that the body, like that of A. T. Stewart, could not be stolen for a ransom.

located at the top of the city for the purpose of locating fire. It consists of a good telescope, which is solidly attached to an arrangement of levers, while graduated sections of a circle are arranged horizontally and vertically in such a way that the moving of the telescope sideways or up or down results in a change of position of the hands attached to the levers in reference to the graduated scales. Thus, the stability of the apparatus being assured by the firmness of the fastening, whenever the telescope is focused upon the same object the hands will point to the same figures on the horizontal and on the vertical sextant, and since an index of the whole city has been made it is but a matter of a few seconds, when a glare is discovered at night, to direct upon the spot the telescope on the side, to read off the numbers, to look up the object and to telegraph to the central station the details observed. Local conditions are, of course, necessary for the successful operation of such an apparatus, but in this case they are said to be almost perfect. The tower is over 500 feet high, and an uninterrupted view of the great area of the city is thus possible to the watchman if the atmospheric conditions are favorable.

TO THE PUBLIC.

As a stranger soliciting a share of your patronage it is but just to you and to myself that I make some mention of my fitness for the work I would undertake. I come from a medical family, my father, brother and many relatives being physicians. I have attended and hold credentials from leading homoeopathic and allopathic medical colleges. For eighteen years I have successfully conducted a large practice. I have held high office in State and National medical societies, and received honorary professional recognition from abroad. I have had considerable hospital experience, am something of a medical writer and author, and have been professor in reputable medical colleges.

These frank statements can be easily verified. If they commend me to your confidence it will give me pleasure to professionally advise and assist healthward all who need and desire my services.

I am prepared to and will practice all branches of medicine and surgery, but because of special research, experience and success in this direction, greatly prefer and particularly invite those suffering from obscure, complicated, delicate, and all chronic or lingering diseases to consult me. Obsolete cases that others have failed to cure are solicited.

My office is at 112 East Main street, one door east of the postoffice. Respectfully, C. EDSON COVEY, M. D. 26619

Boiling River

It is sure enough. It is not as large as the Mississippi, indeed it is quite small, but is a mighty interesting stream for all that. It issues from the sides of a mountain in a thousand tiny rills, more or less and of almost as many colors. These gather themselves into pools and lakelets on the mountain's side, covering an area of about 200 acres. Overflowing their boundaries they slowly trickle down the sides of the mountain forming small cliffs, the most wonderful in the world. From a distance one can hardly believe what the eyesight reveals—white, black, orange, lemon, terra cotta, green, blue, red, pink, separate and in manifold combinations stand out before him. It is a hill of painted cliffs on the sides of the mountain that rises high above. And the odd part of it is that each of these exquisite colors represents a different temperature. Does that startle your credulity? Even so it is true.

When through with this beautiful painting process, these waters again come together and then, as it full of mischief like a pack of small boys trying to play hide and seek, dive down and remain under the ground for a space of two miles and then flow out from the mouth of a canyon into as one of the clearest, most beautiful, green streams imaginable. Where these waters emerge from the mountain into the little lakes they are hot, boiling hot. During their dark underground journey they fall several hundred feet and also many degrees in hotness, so that when they again see daylight they are much cooler. This then is Boiling River, an underground mountain stream of hot water.

But you ask, where is it? Where can I see it? It is in Yellowstone Park at Mammoth Hot Springs. It is one of the lesser, mind you the lesser wonders of this land of wonders. Go there and see it by all means but first send to Chas. S. Fee, General Passenger Agent, Northern Pacific Railway, St. Paul, Minn., six cents for Wonderland '97, that tells all about this renowned region.

DR. TALMAGE PLEADS FOR HONEST WORDS AND DEEDS.

Dr. Talmage of Agricultural, Commercial, Mechanical and Ecclesiastical Lies—A Plain Plea For Telling the Truth—The Masquerade Ball.

Copyright, 1897, by American Press Association.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Dr. Talmage in his discourse gives a vivid classification of the vices of speech and pleads for honesty in all that is said and done. His text is Acts v, 1-10, "A certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira, his wife, sold a possession," etc.

A well matched pair, alike in ambition and in falsehood, Ananias and Sapphira. They wanted a reputation for great beneficence, and they sold all their property, pretending to put the entire proceeds in the charity fund while they put much of it in their own pocket. There was no necessity that they give all their property away, but they wanted the reputation of so doing. Ananias first lied about it and dropped down dead. Then Sapphira lied about it, and she dropped down dead. The two fatalities a warning to all ages of the danger of sacrificing the truth.

There are thousands of ways of telling a lie. A man's whole life may be a falsehood, and yet never with his lips may he falsify once. There is a way of uttering falsehood by look, by manner, as well as by lip. There are persons who are guilty of dishonesty of speech and then afterward say "maybe," calling it a white lie when no lie is that color. The whitest lie ever told was as black as perdition. There are those so given to dishonesty of speech that they do not know when they are lying. With some it is an acquired sin, and with others it is a natural infirmity. There are those whom you will recognize as born liars. Their whole life, from cradle to grave, is filled up with vice of speech. Misrepresentation and prevarication are as natural to them as the infantile diseases and are a sort of moral croup or spiritual scarlatina.

Then there are those who in after life have opportunities of developing this evil, and they go from deception to deception and from class to class, until they are regularly graduated liars. At times the air in our cities is filled with falsehood, and lies cluster around the mechanic's hammer, blossom on the merchant's yardstick and sometimes sit in the doors of churches. They are called by some fabrication and they are called by some, fiction. You might call them subterfuge, or deceit, or romance, or fable, or misrepresentation, or delusion, but as I know nothing to be gained by covering up a God defying sin with a lexicographer's blanket, I shall call them in plainest vernacular, lies. They may be divided into agricultural, commercial, mechanical, social and ecclesiastical.

Agricultural Falsehoods.

First of all, I speak of agricultural falsehoods. There is something in the presence of natural objects that has a tendency to make one pure. The trees never issue false stalk. The wheatfields are always honest. Rye and oats never move out in the night, not paying for the place they occupy. Corn shocks never make false assignment. Mountain brooks are always current. The gold of the wheatfields is never counterfeit. But while the tendency of agricultural life is to make one honest, honesty is not the characteristic of all who come to the city markets from the country districts. You hear the creaking of the dishonest farm wagon in almost every street of our great cities—a farm wagon in which there is not one honest spoke, or one truthful rivet, from tongue to tailboard. Again and again has domestic economy in our great cities founded on the farmer's firkin. When New York and Washington sit down and weep over their sins, let Westchester county and the neighborhoods around this capital sit down and weep over theirs.

The tendency in all rural districts is to suppose that sins and transgressions cluster in our great cities, but citizens and merchants long ago learned that it is not safe to calculate from the character of the apples on the top of the farmer's barrel what is the character of the apples all the way down toward the bottom. Many of our citizens and merchants have learned that it is always safe to see the farmer measure the barrel of beets. Milk cans are not always honest. There are those who in country life seem to think they have a right to overreach grain dealers and merchants of all styles. They think it is more honorable to raise corn than to deal in corn. The producer sometimes practically says to the merchant, "You get your money easily anyhow." Does he get it easily? While the farmer sleeps—and he may go to sleep conscious of the fact that his corn and rye are all the time progressing and adding to his fortune or his livelihood—the merchant tries to sleep, while conscious of the fact that at that moment the ship may be driving on the rock or a wave sweeping over the hurricane deck spoiling his goods, or the speculators may be plotting a monetary revolution, or the burglars may be at that moment at his money safe, or the fire may have kindled on the very block where his store stands.

Easy, is it? Let those who get their living in the quiet farm and barn take the place of one of our city merchants and see whether it is so easy. It is hard enough to have the hands blistered with outdoor work, but it is harder with mental anxieties to have the brain consumed. God help the merchants. And do not let those who live in country life come to the conclusion that all the dishonesties belong to city life.

Commercial Lies.

I pass on to consider commercial lies. There are those who apologize for deviations from the right and for practical deception by saying it is commercial custom. In other words, a lie by multiplication becomes a virtue. There are large fortunes gathered in which there is not one drop of the sweat of unrequited toil, and not one spark of bad temper flashes from the bronze bracket, and there is not one drop of needlewoman's heart's blood on the crimson plush, while there are other fortunes about which it may be said that on every doorknob and on every figure of the carpet and on every wall there is the mark of dishonesty. What if the hand wrung by hell and blistered until the skin comes off should be placed on the exquisite wall paper, leaving its mark of blood—four fingers and a thumb? Or if in the night the hand should be wrung from his slumber, and again, by his own conscience, should be placed on the wall, leaving its mark of blood—four fingers and a thumb?

And there are thousands and tens of thousands of merchants who, from the first day they sold a yard of cloth or firkin of butter, have maintained their integrity. They were born honest, they will live honest and they will die honest. But you and I know that there are in commercial life those who are guilty of great dishonesties of speech. A merchant says, "I am selling these goods at less than cost." Is he getting for those goods a price inferior to that which he paid for them? Then he has spoken the truth. Is he getting more? Then he lies. A merchant says, "I paid $25 for this article." Is that the price he paid for it? All right. But suppose he paid for it $23 instead of $25? Then he lies.

But there are just as many falsehoods before the counter as there are behind the counter. A customer comes in and asks, "How much is this article?" "It is $5." "I can get that for $4 somewhere else." Can he get it for $4 somewhere else or did he say that just for the purpose of getting it cheap by depreciating the value of the goods? If so, he lied. There are just as many falsehoods before the counter as there are behind the counter.

A man unrolls upon the counter a bale of handkerchiefs. The customer says, "Are these all silk?" "Yes." "No cotton in them?" "No cotton in them." Are those handkerchiefs all silk? Then the merchant told the truth. Is there any cotton in them? Then he lied. Moreover, he defrauds himself, for this customer coming in will after awhile find out that he has been defrauded, and the next time he comes to town and goes shopping he will look up at that sign and say, "No, I won't go there; that's the place where I got those handkerchiefs." First, the merchant insulted God, and, secondly, he picked his own pocket.

Who would take the responsibility of saying how many falsehoods were yesterday told by hardware men, and clothiers, and lumbermen, and tobaccoists, and jewelers, and importers, and shippers, and dealers in furniture, and dealers in coal, and dealers in groceries? Lies about buckles, about saddles, about harness, about shoes, about hats, about coats, about shovels, about tongs, about forks, about chairs, about sofas, about horses, about lands, about everything. I arraign commercial falsehood as one of the crying sins of our time.

Mechanical Lies.

I pass on to speak of mechanical falsehoods. Among the artisans are those upon whom we are dependent for the houses in which we live, the garments we wear, the cars in which we ride. The vast majority of them are, so far as I know them, men who speak the truth, and they are upright, and many of them are foremost in great philanthropies and in churches, but that they all do not belong to that class every one knows. In times when there is a great demand for labor it is not so easy for such men to keep their obligations, because they may miscalculate in regard to the weather or they may not be able to get the help they anticipated in their enterprise. I am speaking now of those who promise to do that which they know they will not be able to do. They say they will come on Monday. They do not come until Wednesday. They say they will come on Wednesday. They do not come until Saturday. They say they will have the job done in ten days. They do not get it done before 80. And when a man becomes irritated and will not stand it any longer then they go and work for him a day or two and keep the job along, and then someone else gets irritated and outraged, and they go and work for that man and get him pacified, and then they go somewhere else. I believe they call that "nursing the job."

Ah, my friends, how much dishonesty such men would save their souls if they would promise to do only that which they know they can do! "Oh," they say, "it's of no importance. Everybody expects to be deceived and disappointed." There is a voice of thunder sounding among the saws and the hammers and the shears, saying, "All liars shall have their place in the lake that burns with fire and brimstone."

I pass on to speak of social lies. How much of society is insincere? You hardly know what to believe. They send their regards. You do not exactly know whether it is an expression of the heart or an external civility. They ask you to come to their house. You hardly know whether they really want you to come. We are all accustomed to take a discount off what we hear. "Not at home" very often means too lazy to dress. I was reading of a lady who said she had told her last fashionable lie. There was a knock at her door, and she sent word down, "Not at home." That night her husband said to her, "Mrs. So-and-so is dead." "Is it possible?" she said. "Yes, and she died in great anguish of mind." She wanted to see you so very much; she had something very important to disclose to you in her last hour, and she sent three times today, but found you absent every time." Then this woman be thought herself that she had had a bargain with her neighbor that when the long protracted sickness was about to come to an end she would appear at her bedside and take the secret that was to be disclosed. And she had said she was "not at home."

Social life is struck through with insincerity. They apologize for the fact that the furnace is out; they have not had any fire in it all winter. They apologize for the fare on their table; they never live any better. They decry their most luxuriant entertainment to win a shower of approval from you. They point at a picture on the wall as a work of one of the old masters. They say it is an heirloom in the family. It hung on the wall of a castle. A duke gave it to their grandfather! People that will lie about nothing else will lie about a picture. On small income we want the world to believe we are affluent, and society today is struck through with cheat and counterfeit and sham. How few people are natural! Frigidity sails around, iceberg grinding against iceberg. You must not laugh outright. That is vulgar. You must smile. You must not dash quickly across the room. That is vulgar. You must glide. Much of society is a round of bows and grins and grimaces and oh's and ah's and he, he, he's and simperings and namby pambyism, a whole world of which is not worth one good honest round of laughter. From such a hollow scene the tortured guest retires at the close of the evening, assuring the host that he has enjoyed himself. Society becomes so contorted and deformed in this respect that a mountain cabin where the rustic gather at a quilting or an apple peeling, has in it more good cheer than all the staid refinements of the modern drawing room.

And there are those who, from the first day they sold a yard of cloth or firkin of butter, have maintained their integrity. They were born honest, they will live honest and they will die honest. But you and I know that there are in commercial life those who are guilty of great dishonesties of speech. A merchant says, "I am selling these goods at less than cost." Is he getting for those goods a price inferior to that which he paid for them? Then he has spoken the truth. Is he getting more? Then he lies. A merchant says, "I paid $25 for this article." Is that the price he paid for it? All right. But suppose he paid for it $23 instead of $25? Then he lies.

Then, how often it is that there are misrepresentations on the part of individual churches in regard to other churches, especially if a church comes to great prosperity. As long as a church is in poverty, and the singing is poor, and all the surroundings are decrepit, and the congregation are so hardly bested in life that their pastor goes with elbows out, then there will always be Christian people in churches who say, "What a pity; what a pity!" But let the day of prosperity come to a Christian church and let the music be triumphant, and let there be vast assemblages, and then there will be even ministers of the gospel critical and denunciatory and full of misrepresentation and falsification, giving the impression to the outside world that they do not like the church because it is not ground in their mill. Oh, my friends, let us in all departments of life stand back from deception.

But some one says, "The deception that I practice is so small that it doesn't amount to anything." Ah, my friends, it does amount to a great deal. You say, "When I deceive, it is only about a case of needles or a box of buttons or a row of pins." But the article may be so small you can put it in your vest pocket, but the sin is as big as the pyramids, and the echo of your dishonor will reverberate through the mountains of eternity. There is no such thing as a small sin. They are all vast and stupendous, because they will all have to come under inspection in the day of judgment. You may boast yourself of having made a fine bargain—a sharp bargain. You may carry out what the Bible says in regard to that man who went in to make a purchase and depreciated the value of the goods and then after he had got away boasted of the splendid bargain he had made. "It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer, but when he is gone his way then he boasteth." It may seem to the world a sharp bargain, but the recording angel wrote down in the ponderous tomes of eternity, "Mr. So-and-so, doing business on Pennsylvania avenue or Broadway or Chestnut street or State street, told one lie."

Speak the Truth.

May God extirpate from society all the ecclesiastical lies, and all the social lies, and all the mechanical lies, and all the commercial lies, and all the agricultural lies, and make every man to speak the truth of his neighbor. My friends, let us make our life correspond to what we are. Let us banish all deception from our behavior. Let us remember that the time comes when God will demonstrate before an assembled universe just what we are. The secret will come out. We may hide it while we live, but we cannot hide it when we die. To many life is a masquerade ball. As at such entertainment gentlemen and ladies appear in garb of kings or queens or mountain bandits or clowns and then at the close of the dance put off their disguise, so many all through life are in mask. The masquerade ball goes on, and gemmed hand clasps gemmed hand, and dancing feet respond to dancing feet, and gleaming brow bends to gleaming brow, and the masquerade ball goes bravely on. But after awhile languor comes and blurs the sight. Lights lower. Floor hollow with sepulchral echo. Music saddens into a wail. Lights lower. Now the masquerade is hardly seen. The fragrance is exchanged for the sickening odor of garlands that have lain a long while in the damp of sepulchers. Lights lower. Mists fill the room. The scarf drops from the shoulder of beauty, a shroud. Lights lower. Torn leaves and withered garlands now hardly cover up the ulcered feet. Stench of lamp wicks almost quenched. Choking dampness. Chilliness. Feet still. Hands folded. Eyes shut. Voice hushed. Lights out.

Rough on Pat.

Two Irish soldiers stationed in the West Indies were accustomed to bathe daily in a little bay which was generally supposed to be free from sharks. Though on good terms with each other, they were not what might be called fast friends.

One day, as they were swimming about 100 yards from the shore, Pat observed Mick suddenly making for the land as hard as he could without saying a word. Wondering what was the matter, Pat struck out vigorously after him and landed at his companion's heels.

"Is there anything wrong wid ye?" inquired Pat feelingly.

"Nothin'—nothin' at all," replied the other.

"Thin what did ye make such a sudden retreat for an lave me?" continued Pat.

"Bedad," answered Mick coolly, "I spied the fin av a big shark about 20 feet ahead, an I thought while he was playin wid you it wud give me time to reach the shore."

It is not to be wondered at that Pat declined to bathe with Mick any more.—London Tit-Bits.

The Bazin Boat Failure.

The Bazin roller boat, which it was promised would do such wonderful things in the way of speed, has now been put through its trials, and, as is now generally known, has been found wanting, is a lamentable failure and furnishes yet another instance of the enthusiasm of an inventor seeking to override the ascertained possibilities of mechanical effort. Instead of a speed of 20 knots, as anticipated, only eight knots has been attained, and this notwithstanding that the power exerted was very considerably in excess of that anticipated in the original designing of the engine. M. Bazin, in addition to having to suffer the agonies of defeat and to put up with the jeers and taunts of many of his countrymen, has now also to bear the charge of deception, fraud, and

INJUNCTION.

ASKED THAT ONE BE ISSUED AGAINST CITY OF NILES.

Gallop Claims That Proceedings of the City Council Relative to Paving are Illegal.

B. D. Gallop, of Niles, has filed a bill in the circuit court, praying for an injunction against the city of Niles restraining the city council from making further progress in the attempt to pave certain streets and sidewalks. Mr. Gallop is the owner of real estate in Niles and his property has been assessed for paving purposes. He declares the assessment is illegal for the reason that the proceedings by which the council ordered paving were not properly conducted. He wants the resolution by which the councilmen decided to pave declared null and void. He says the required notice and assessment notices were not given as the law stipulates and that the council has no authority to proceed with the paving. The incurring of further expenses for paving he asks the court to prevent and he has a bill of many pages in which he tells the story of the irregularities in the proceedings of the city council so far as it refers to the paving matter.

PULLMAN'S WILL.

THE WIDOW GETS THE MOST OF THE ESTATE.

Five Sons Must Work Out a Period of Probation—Estate Worth $25,000,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25—Five sheets of legal cap paper, covered on both sides with writing and representing a distribution of $25,000,000 in money, real estate, bonds, mortgages and notes, were confided to the care of Robert T. Lincoln and Norman B. Ream yesterday. The document was the last will and testament of George M. Pullman, the dead multimillionaire and palace car magnate. It was placed in a safe in the residence of Mr. Lincoln at 60 Lake Shore drive, after the latter and Mr. Ream, in their capacity as executors, had received the record of Mr. Pullman's bequests into their keeping. It is understood that the bulk of the estate will devolve upon Mrs. Pullman, the widow, to be held by her until her death, when it will revert to the children under certain conditions for the sons. Mrs. Florence Lowden, one of the daughters and regarded as the favorite child, will be made one of the wealthiest women in Chicago. A considerable portion of the estate will also be inherited by her on the death of her mother. Mrs. Frank J. Carolan, the other daughter, comes in for nearly $1,000,000, but is not so liberally endowed as her sister. George M. and W. Sanger Pullman, the twin brothers and only sons, will have to undergo a period of probation before they will be intrusted with any portion of the late millionaire's fortune. Friends of the Pullman family estimate the income which is to revert to each of the sons at from $2,000 to $5,000 a year for five years. In the event of their living up to the provisions of the will they will then receive a large interest in the estate.

VOSBURG ACQUITTED.

Jury Decides He is Not Guilty of a Criminal Act.

George Vosburg, accused of obtaining goods under false pretenses, was acquitted by a jury in Justice Graves' court Saturday afternoon. The jury agreed on a verdict of acquittal on the first ballot and reported 15 minutes after retiring. It was developed at the trial that Vosburg was disposed to pay the dishonest checks delivered by him in payment of fruit, and that had the case against him been dropped the check of Mrs. Dobbing, who complained against him, would have been paid forthwith and the others as soon as he could raise the money. Ex-president S. A. Bailey testified at the hearing that Vosburg had been doing business with the First National bank at intervals all summer and it was maintained by the defense that he had reason for believing that there was money in the Farmers & Merchant's bank when he drew a check on that institution and delivered the same to Mrs. Dobbing in payment of fruit purchased of her.

YOUNG GIRLS.

How to Clothe Them Healthfully and Comfortably.

The costuming of girls from 12 to 15 years old is nearly always a difficult matter. There are comparatively few who escape the awkwardness of the "awkward age," when they are leaving the domain of childhood and are yet not young ladies, in the social sense of the term. A girl who is exceptionally small, slender or graceful is of no trouble to herself or her friends, but the average girl is all angles and joints during the transitional time and drives her mother and dressmaker to desperation by her unadaptability. Growing tall before she fills out, she is all long, straight lines and does not know how to manage her suddenly acquired height, especially as she usually retains her tastes for childish amusements and untrammelled movement. It is highly undesirable to clothe a young girl in rich materials, as they belong to maturity, not to youth. For ordinary wear English serge, diagonals, buckram and boucle or hairy goods are suitable. The skirt should be long enough to prevent an awkward look, but not of full length, and should be plain in front and at the hips unless it is full all around. At the back, however, it should always be full at the waist to give more bulk to the figure.

While it is often well to have the bodice close fitting at the back, it should be loose and vague in front, gathered, plaited or having a full vest or drapery of some sort. The sleeves also should not be tight, as tightness accentuates the too great slenderness of the arms. Circular and horizontal trimmings are especially appropriate and becoming. The collar should be high and straight, not flaring.

The bodice should never be tight in any respect. The waistband should be of full size, not constraining the figure at all, and ample room for breathing and development should be left everywhere, else the figure of the future woman will be injured, as well as her health, and health is a requisite of beauty. There is usually little need of increasing the slenderness of a young girl by adventitious means, and she should be left quite unhampered.

The illustration shows a long coat for a young girl. It is of amazon cloth and is close fitting behind, while in front it is straight and double breasted, fastening with two rows of large pearl buttons. This coat is cut so as to reach up over the hips, the space being filled by breadths of the same goods, upon which the body of the coat is fastened down by rows of stitching. The revers and collar are faced with plaid silk, and the sleeves have plaid silk cuffs.

PROMOTED FOR GALLANTRY.

A New York Policeman Awarded For Catching a Burglar.

Hon. Theodore Roosevelt writes an article entitled "The Roll of Honor of the New York Police" for The Century. Mr. Roosevelt says:

Early in our term we promoted a patrolman to the grade of roundsman for activity in catching a burglar under rather peculiar circumstances. I happened to note his getting a burglar one week. Apparently he had fallen into the habit, for he got another the next week. In the latter case the burglar escaped from the house soon after midnight and ran away toward Park avenue, with the policeman in hot chase. The New York Central railroad runs under Park avenue, and there is a succession of openings in the top of the tunnel. Finding that the policeman was gaining on him, the burglar took a desperate chance and leaped down one of these openings at the risk of breaking his neck. Now the burglar was running for his liberty, and it was the part of wisdom for him to imperil life or limb, but the policeman was merely doing his duty, and nobody could have blamed him for not taking the jump. However, he jumped, and in this particular case the hand of the Lord was heavy upon the unrighteous. The burglar had the breath knocked out of him, and the "cop" didn't. When his victim could walk, the officer trotted him around to the station house, and a week afterward he himself was promoted, it appearing upon careful investigation that he was sober, trustworthy and strictly attentive to his duty.

Here again it seems to me that we followed the eminently common sense plan of promoting a man who had earned his promotion by faithful and distinguished service and by proved superior capacity. We cared no more for the policeman's views on the tariff or the currency than we did for those of the burglar. Our interest and the interest of citizens generally was to have the officer catch that burglar and otherwise do his duty. If he did his duty, we were for him; if he did not, we were against him. In neither event did we care whether the officer had or had not the backing of the congressional delegation of the city or the central committee of the county. Of course, as before, this exposed us to wild outcries from the local political bosses and heelers and much sneering at "civil service reform," but all the outcries and sneers meant that we were doing our duty as decent men and as public officials, with some slight appreciation of what was implied by the words honor and uprightness. Political organizations are eminently necessary and useful, but when they are seized by professional spoils politicians of low morality, who run the "machine" in their own interests, who clamor against honesty and defy decency and rail against that device for obtaining clean government which is known as civil service reform, then it is time for all citizens who believe in good citizenship to rise in revolt.
